Last Sunday morning, between 1 and 2 o'clock, a terrible murder was committed on "Nickel Row," a negro settlement in the southeastern portion of the city. The victim was Barbara Hall, an aged and respectable negro woman, and the and respectable negro woman, and the murderers are two young negroes, Lawrence Rutledge and John Rice, grandsons of the old woman. Gilbert Rutledge, a well known negro who drives a public carriage in the city, married the mother of the two young negroes, and for some time past there has been bad feelings existing between Gilbert and his stepsons. On Saturday night the three latter met at a negro woman's house on Morris street, and renewed their old trouble, which resulted in a general fight, Gilbert whipping one of his step-sons and the other cutting a long gash across the woman's face. The step-sons ran off, and Gilbert went for a physician to attend the wounded woman. The step-sons went home and told their mother where her husband was and what had happenwhich resulted in a general fight, Gilbert whipping one of his step-sons and the other cutting a long gash across the woman's face. The step-sons ran off, and Gilbert went for a physician to attend the wounded woman. The step-sons went home and told their mother where her husband was and what had happened. She immediately went to the scene of the trouble, and there she and her husband got into a row. They left the many evil and damaging reports that were manufactured and circulated for partizan purposes. There was no real issue in the recent City election, Mayor Tolly having assured his friends that if re-elected, he would use every effort to enforce the law against the illegal sale of whiskey. There was no fight over Councilmen, the only trouble being to get suitable men to consent to serve. Mr. Tolly's record as Mayor for the past twelve years or more stands for itself.

They left the place and started for home. When they reached "Nickel Row" they met Lawrence and John, who raised a row again with Gilbert, cutting him in the face and knocking him in the head with a rock. Gilbert pulled his pistol, and just at this time the old woman appeared, and, with the assistance of Gilbert's wife, managed to get the pistol away from him and carto get the pistol away from him and car-ried him into her house not far away. One of the young men, in the meantime, went off and came back with Gilbert's shotgun, when he and his brother tried to enter their grandmother's house. The old woman was holding the door and talking to Gilbert, who, it seems, wanted swhotgun, when he and his brother tried to enter their grandmother's house. The cold woman was holding the door and talking to Gilbert, who, it seems, wanted to go out to his stepsons. In a few seconds one of the latter placed the gun at the door and fired, the load going through the door and striking the old woman in the right breast, making a hole as large as a silver dollar and killing her almost instantly. The report of the gun and the screams of some of the persons living near by soon aroused the neighborhood, and it was not long before the police appeared on the scene. Two officers went to Gilbert's house and by daylight secured Lawrence and John and locked them up. A number of other arrests were also made. Coroner Earle held an inquest Sunday morning, and lawrence and John were committed to good to be and Lawrence and John were committed to good to be and Lawrence and John were committed to good to be and Lawrence and John were committed to good to be and Lawrence and John were committed to good to be and Lawrence and John were committed to good to be and Lawrence and John were committed to good to be and Lawrence and John were committed to good to be and Lawrence and John were committed to good to be and Lawrence and John were committed to good to be and Lawrence and John were committed to good to be and Lawrence and John were committed to good to jail, though the jury could not determine which one had fired the gun. The other parties arrested were released, as there was no evidence against anybody except the two young negroes named.

A Reply to Rev. O. L. Martin. ANDERSON, S. C., Sept. 3, 1894. Editors Anderson Intelligencer—DEAR SIRS: As the Rev. O. L. Martin's article in your last issue seemed intended to dis-parage the former City Council of Anderson by having the people to believe we were nothing more nor less than a lawless set of cut-throats, thieves and blackguards, elected and kept in office by such, I having been one of that body feel compelled to come forward in vindication of myself. Just here I am glad to say that when I and run by the best people of Anderson, and received the support of every class, twenty years ago-when they were just starting the organized mill-when all for which I am yet thankful; and at that time, before the conception of the Dispenwas run under the license system, and there was no issue made on that line whatever; therefore no cause for "blind tiger" nominations. And yet it appears that Mr. Martin's article would have the that Mr. Martin's article would have the people to believe that our nomination and election was begotten, conceived, born and reared in a "blind tiger," when there was no such thing existing here at that time. Now, with all due respect for the position that Mr. Martin holds, if he, or any one else, presumes to say that I, or the majority of that Council, ever permitted a single citizen of Anderson to be outraged by either my or their knowledge and consent, it is positively and emphatically false and without foundation, and I demand his proof. Neither have I ever been in favor of "blind tigers," bar-rooms or whiskey in any form, further than for medicinal purposes alone, and have ever voted to suppress it when ever I had a chance to do so, nor do I advocate any other form of law breaking.

other form of law-breaking.

If Mr. Martin knows what he is writing about he should confine his remarks more closely to facts and draw less on his prejudices and imagination. On the other hand if he did not he should have said nothing and let everything remain quiet and at peace, as has been the case during his absence. His article shows to the observant mind how little he knows about pre-vious affairs of the municipality in which

Now, in conclusion, let me say how much more good he might have done had he only given his influence to spiritual instead of secular affairs. May I yet live to see him one of an honorable body of with, not censure, him.

Respectfully,
A. C. STRICKLAND. The good people of Anderson were tired of being outraged by the lawless element, with the knowledge and consent of at least the majority of those charged with the conduct of affairs. They elected the present Council to give Anderson a clean government, conducted in the interest of law and order and common decency. And they do not expect that Council to disappoint them. I do not believe it will. We would have accomplished more in the direction of reform if every man had done his duty whom we had a right to expect to do his duty. And if some men had not done-well, had not done what we had never thought them capable of doing. As it was, we did more than most people thought we would. The result shows that we can elect suitable men to preside over the destinles of Anderson, and that we do not have to swallow the nominations of the "blind tigera." It is because we have tamely submitted, and have not been heroic and patriotic enough to fight for home, God and our country that we have been dominated by the saleon so long.

O. L. MARTIN,

Have the insinuations of this doughty

reverend reformer any foundation in fact? All the old councilmen are men of the highest character, five of them out of six, being members of the different Churches, in good standing, having the respect and confidence of the entire community. Most of them gave notice that munity. Most of them gave notice that munity. Most of them gave notice that they would not serve if re-elected—a majority of them having served two terms. Our citizens, all this time, never suspected that they were being governed by the lawless element, dominated by the whiskey ring, until this redoubtable reformer (?) proclaimed it on the streets on the evening of a general election for City offices, and has since repeated it in the their conversions were instantaneous, not even heard of until the eve of the eleceven heard of until the eve of the election. Happenings in and around Pledmont, Last Sunday was a great day with the Presbyterians of Piedmont, it being the day appointed for the dedication of their new Church. They have labored diligent-ly and faithfully for the last twelve months, and now their labors are crowned with success beyond their most sanguine expectations. Like everything else we undertake, if we have the assistance of the good ladies with us, it is not hard to succeed in all our undertakings, and this they had, and without which their efforts would have been in vain. Little did we think, the first time we visited Piedmont scemed to be a wilderness, that so soon as this that Piedmont would have a population of over three thousand people, with three magnificent Churches built by the three magnitudes. Cutrenes but by the three principal denominations of the town, besides the one erected by the Company in 1879. Yet it is so. I think Col. Hammett had all this picture out on his own mind when he first conceived the idea of building a Cotton Mill at this place. In fact I know he did for he hes talked it. fact, I know he did, for he has talked it to me frequently that Piedmont was not done, and that the people of this County would be astonished if they only knew what Piedmont would be in a few years. He certainly had a gigantic mind, and was able to see farther in the future than the most of us. This Church building has cost something near four thousand dol-lars, of which the Piedmont Company has contributed five hundred dollars in cash, basides allowing them the use of their car penter shop's and machinery, the same as they did with the Baptist and Methodis Churches. The Rev. Dr. Wilson, of Ab-beville, preached the dedication sermon from 87th Psalm, 2nd verse. The Rev Mr. Hinderlight is conducting a protracted

This time across fair Pisgah's plain,
Two trusting hearts are now united,
With the golden bands of love.
May all their steps by faith be guided,
And their journey end in Heaven above.

The protracted meeting closed at Friendship Thursday night with one accession. The pastor had to close on account of having to conduct a meeting at his Abbeville Church. When it closes, he will carry on a meeting again at Friendship.

It seems that brother "Pedro" didn't cuits grass the pickle we got into. We quite grasp the pickle we got into. We will try and give a description of "our darling." Yes, she is a daisy, but we love her all the same. She is very tall, and has red hair, blue eyes, freckled face, and a great big wart on the end of her Roman nose the size of a 32-caliber bullet. Two of her front teeth are missing, and she is lame in one leg, and her voice sounds like a "gourd fiddle." But with all these defects, she has the mildest temper and the except disposition of any girl we defects, she has the mildest temper and the sweetest disposition of any girl we have ever met. We didn't want to be bored by that lightning rod man. So we thought we would skip and not be forced to "do him up." Many thanks for your kindness in asking the question.

We have just returned from Mr. Cowan's meeting, and we hope he is accomplishing much good. We returned homein a meditative mood, and our thoughts have been on a restical strain ever since.
